From Me to You

Imagine... Taking your most precious gift to a stranger's house and leaving it there for 8 hours. Do you expect the stranger to return the gift in better condition than you left it? What about your car... If you dropped your car off to a mechanic, how long would you wait before you called to check on it? What if you do not understand what the mechanic is saying? What if you are not satisfied with the work? What if the mechanic failed to improve the car's performance? What would you do? Now instead of a mechanic and your car, consider a SCHOOL and your CHILD! Do you pay closer attention to the handling of your car than to the handling of your child? Think about it!

Special note for the reader

Dear Reader, Thank you for supporting this cause. My wish is that your investment in this book is more than just a few bucks and a quick read. I know the power of education and am hoping you use this book and other resources found at www.weteachparents.com to assist you in increasing life opportunities for your children. We Teach Parents is more than just the name of this learning community, it is truly our mission. We believe that equipping parents with information concerning schools and education will enhance the parent-teacher relationship, thus enhancing the school experience for all children. This undertaking is in need of many more believers, supporters, and advocates. For the sake of our children, will you join us? Please visit www.weteachparents.com and spread the word to those you love. Educationally yours, Dr. James Harden, III
