When Judith's Grossmammi Ruth comes to live at the Saunders' home, Salome soon finds her patience stretched. Not only does the woman share her opinions regardless of who wants to hear them, she has made it clear that she does not approve of Salome, or her detective work. So when Salome's anger drives her to regret, she finds herself searching for forgiveness—as well as a missing grandmother. Grossmammi Ruth was last seen in her attic room, a room with only one door. So how is it possible for an elderly—and overweight—lady to make her way past the family without detection? Whether she managed on her own, or was helped by another, it's up to Salome, with some help from her fiancé, Bishop Lazarus Burkeholder, to find the woman before it's too late.
